

Inhaltsverzeichnis / Contents

Jewish life in Pomerania. Stories researched, translated and written by Stephen Cameron Jalil. With a foreword by Sir Martin Gilbert. - Burgess Hill, West Sussex: Nicholls, 2002. 55 S.

Map of the towns of Pomerania	1
Title page with the synagogue at Stolp	2
Preface and acknowledgements	3
Contents	4
Foreword by Sir Martin Gilbert	5
Prologue	6-7
A short history of the Jews of Pomerania	7-21
A plea for tolerance during the summer of 1881, the year of the anti-Jewish riots in Pomerania and West Prussia	21-22
Sweden's attitude to Jewish and Catholic settlement and the legacy of the Lion of the North	22-25
The Jewish settlement at Poplow	25-27
A Polish Jew applies for Prussian citizenship	28-31
The most unusual hotel in the world by Sammy Gronemann	31-33
A German remembers by Werner Siedersleben	33-34
A village prank by Stephen Nicholls	35-37
Memories of Edith Wolff, a Jewish classmate in Grimmen by Evelyn Kuhn, née Altwasser	37-39
A rare example of Christian solidarity by Cordula Koepcke	39-40
Friends become enemies: The Jewish community at Stolp by Erich Groth	41-42
A Christian-Jewish encounter on the island of Rügen	42-45
Post-war Pomeranian Jewry	45-47
Epilogue and requiem to Pomeranian Jewry by Gerhard Drucker	48
Photograph of Rudi Morley's family (Kolberg - 1920)	49
Remains of the Jewish cemetery at Stettin	50
Four synagogues	51
Map of the Jewish communities in Western Pomerania	52
Map of Pomerania showing administrative districts	53
Map of Prussia's Jewish communities in the nineteenth century	54
Antisemitic cartoon by Wilhelm Busch	55
Jewish cemetery at Niederhof	56